Several SGA programs improve life at SSU

by Janet Parenti, news editor

The Student Government Association has been very busy this semester with several programs to improve student life at Salisbury State.

It has recently succeeded in acquiring the option of a 10-meal plan for Chesapeake Hall. Currently, Chesapeake residents only have the choice of the 19, 15 or no meal plan.

According to SGA senator and Chesapeake resident Tracy Candisky, this 10-meal eight people that do not have a meal plan.

Former Chesapeake resident Jill Collins, a senior, agreed. She said that when she lived there "none of us were on the meal plan. There was just one little stove and the refrigerator was nowhere near the size of a regular family refrigerator. It was kind of hard with eight people trying to cook in the little kitchen."

The SGA surveyed approximately 130 of the 184 Chesapeake residents. They Spring semester.

The cost of the plan is $775 for the semester. It will include any 10 meals during the week.

DiSylvestro explained that Chesapeake Hall will be the only residence hall with this option because the other halls do not have kitchens to supplement the plan.

He encourages students that are interested to inform the ID office so that they can bill the students accordingly.

Another SGA program to make life a bit more pleasant for students is a bussing service. The "Gus Bus" drops off and picks up student at the Centre at Salisbury and Movies 6. A round trip costs $1.

According to SGA Vice President Joe Herman, the name "Gus Bus" came from a conference at Texas A&M where they got the idea for the service. "We thought about renaming it, but the name 'Gus Bus' is kind of catchy, even if it is kind of goofy."

The service already ran for two weekends last month and on Dec. 5. It will run again on

Semester ends late due to Labor Day bonuses

by Michelle VanNess, feature editor

While many colleges and universities are finishing their exams on Dec. 18, SSU and other schools in the University of Maryland system are just starting theirs.

According to Avery Saulsbury, registrar, Salisbury State does not begin classes until after Labor Day because students that work in Ocean City for the summer get bonuses if they stay through the season.

Saulsbury says, "It was highly recommended by Governor Shaeffer six years ago. He thought a lot of students at the beach would be affected by starting classes early."

SSU has been abiding this recommendation, but Saulsbury says that to his knowledge it is not an official mandate, which means that fulfilling the request is not required by law.

In fact, Frostburg State University did begin classes before Labor Day this semester.

According to Saulsbury, since Labor Day has a different date every year, the semesters will run in cycles.

Although the calendar committee has not yet met to officially declare the dates, according to Nancy Culver, secretary at the Office of Academic Affairs the approximate dates for final exams next year will again be

Dec. 18-23.

After 1993, Labor Day will fall a little earlier. Saulsbury says, "The problem will go away on the next cycle. That year exams may be finished as early as Dec. 20 or 21."

dissatisfied.

Laura Hullinger, sophomore, says, "I don't think it's fair because there is no time to spend with your family at Christmas. I'd rather start early and get out early."

"There is no time to work before Christmas. What about our Christmas bonuses?"

- SSU sophomore Eric Lambert

Student reactions to the current system are mixed. Dan Markey, junior and Ocean City employee, comments, "I think that students will be anxious to get out no matter when break ends.

He said, "I don't think that there is anything wrong with it. I like it because of the extra work. People are going to complain about anything."

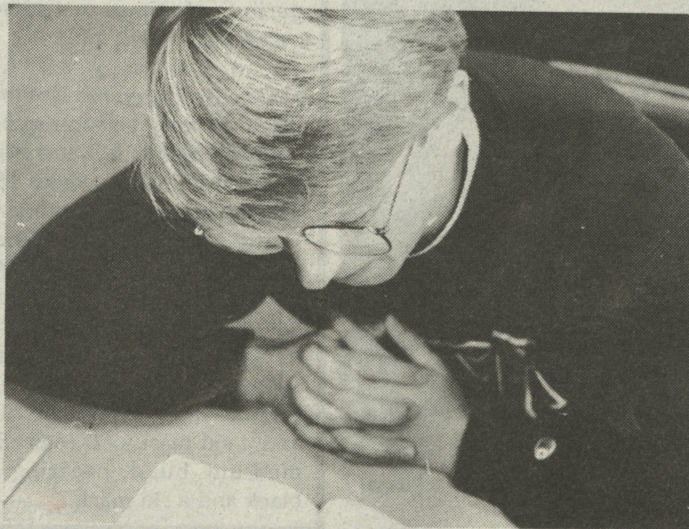

Although Saulsbury claims not have heard any students express displeasure about the system, many students are Another sophomore, Eric Lambert believes that making amends for the beach employees is not fair to the rest of the SSU students. He says, "There is no time to work before Christmas. What about our Christmas bonuses?"

Lisa Roskin, freshman, says that having finals so late bothers her, but she has a very different reason for wanting to get out early.

She comments, "I think it is

Holiday moving policy leaves residents upset

by Joe Orr, staff writer

"It sucks!" breathes Tom Polen.
"It's ridiculous!" chirps Jeff Doolan.
"I hate it!" whines Amy Skinner.
"It's stupid," moans Mitch Linzey.
These students all have one thing in common. They're all SSU campus residents - and they're reacting to having to bring home or put into storage all of their personal belongings for winter break. Needless to say, they're a bit cross about it.

Policy requires that all Salisbury students strip their rooms completely bare before they lock up and go home for the holidays.

Salisbury State isn't the only school where students are expected to vanish along with their loot over these cold weeks. University of Maryland Baltimore County, Towson State, and others have the same plan.

The reasons for this controversial rule at Salisbury are explained by Chesapeake/St. Martin area director Tony D'Antonio. "The first reason," he states, "is that we're concerned about the security of the students' belongings. The people who live in this town know when we have our breaks. That's one reason why we require all campus residents to clear out their rooms."

D'Antonio also explains that winter break is the only time maintenance work can be done in the dorms. Further, conferences are held on campus during these weeks and the guests use the buildings.

"These conferences," says Director of Administrative Services Richard Yobst, "help to remove some of the dormitory costs from the students."

Kathleen Groult, director of housing and residence life, further points out that the Residence Halls are "multi-purpose buildings which are used year round and never left idle."

Perhaps the students who are most annoyed about the rule are those who are taking winter term classes and who will only be absent from campus for nine days.

This is especially true for Chesapeake Hall residents. Winter term housing will be in Chesapeake this year, yet they also must remove all their property as well. Tracy Gaboh, a resident of Chesapeake Hall, calls this an "unnecessary hassle."

As a consolation, the Residence Hall Association and Campbell's Soup will be sponsoring winter storage trailers. These will be located in the quad and there will be a charge of up to $5 for each item one wishes to store.

Crime spree occurs near SSU

by Lauren Weis, staff writer

Five armed robberies have occurred in the past several months in the area surrounding campus. Police have linked at least two of the robberies to the same suspects.

The robbery spree started on Sept. 10 with the holdup of the Bank of Maryland in the Allenwood Shopping Center, directly behind the Guerrieri University Center. A man making a night deposit was held up by a man carrying a small automatic handgun.

The next theft occurred on Oct. 15 at the Maryland National Bank automatic teller machine, located across Route 13. A person, non-student, was using the ATM when he was approached by two men who demanded money.

The suspects, one of whom was armed with a knife, were last seen running in the direction of the Dining Hall. They are described as two black males, six feet tall, slim build, wearing dark clothing and Halloween masks.

The next armed robbery occurred on Oct. 22 at the Kentucky Fried Chicken on Route 13, across from SSU. The suspects remain at large.

During the month of November two more robberies have occurred, one of them on the SSU campus. The crimes occurred within days of each other.

On Nov. 17, a Domino's Pizza delivery person was robbed in the Chesapeake Hall parking lot. He was attacked by two males who robbed him of $35 and then ran off in the direction of Maggs Gym, turned right at Caruthers Hall and ran towards the center of campus. The suspects were described as wearing black sweatshirts with dark ski masks.

The next day, Nov. 18, the Little Caesar's pizza shop in the Clairmont Shopping Center was held up. The suspects, described as three black males, armed with a baseball bat and a gun, are possibly the same men who robbed KFC in October.

SSU student Jennifer Maddocks was in the vicinity of Little Caesar's on the night of the crime. Maddocks was questioned by Campus Police as a potential witness, however she had not seen the suspects.

Maddocks said, "The Campus Police officer asked me if I had seen the suspects. I had walked past the scene two minutes after the robbery occurred. I had not sighted the three men, but the incident really frightened me. I could have been hurt or even shot. I don't like the idea of being frightened to walk off campus at night, it really disturbs me."

All five crimes remain unsolved. Crime Solvers asks anyone with information about these crimes to call Crime Solvers of the Lower Shore at (410) 548-1776. If your information leads to an arrest and/or indictment you could be rewarded with up to $1,000. The report can be made anonymously.

CRIME BEAT

11/14 Theft/Vandalism: Three individuals entered a cluster in Chesapeake Hall through an unlocked door. They emptied the contents of a fire extinguisher, broke the glass out of a fire alarm pull station and removed a student's wallet from the cluster. One possible suspect has been identified as a student. Investigation is continuing. Criminal and/or administrative action is pending.

11/14 Theft/Breaking & Entering/Vandalism: A resident of St. Martin's hall reported the theft of cassette tapes, clothing and a luggage bag from his unlocked room. The room was also vandalized.

11/15 Theft: Two golf carts were removed from the Physical Plant and left behind Maggs gym. Two suspects were chased on foot, but fled behind Salisbury Billiards.

11/16 Theft: A resident of Severn Hall reported the theft of money from her room over a period of time on several occasions.

11/18 Robbery: A Domino's Pizza delivery person reported being robbed by two men while in front of Chesapeake Hall. The men then fled south in the Caruther's Lot on foot. One of the men was possibly armed with a hand gun. The victim was pushed to the ground by one of the suspects. The suspects are described as: (1) Male, 6'2", wearing all black and a ski mask; (2) Male, 5'8", medium build, wearing all black and a ski mask.

11/18 Automobile theft: A student reported parking her car in the Chesapeake Lot and later discovered it missing. At 3:07 am on 11/19 a campus police officer found the stolen car on Loblolly Lane. The passenger side door lock had been tampered with as well as the ignition. The owner was contacted and the auto returned to her.

11/21 Assault: Four female students were walking toward campus from the area of Ohio and Smith Streets when they were chased by a group of approx. eleven juveniles. The students ran and were able to go to a neighbor's house for help.

11/19-11/21 Theft: A letter mailed to a resident was stolen from the campus post office.

11/24 Theft: A student reported that the convertible top on his VW was cut and a Pioneer AM/FM stereo was stolen from the Chesapeake Lot.

11/25 Theft: A student reported the theft of a bicycle from the bike rack at the rear of Maggs.

11/30 Theft: A bookbag and contents were reported stolen from the lobby of the Dining Hall.

SSU shares holiday spirit by helping needy

by Kate Turner-Walker, staff writer

To most of us, the holidays mean love, warmth and gifts. Unfortunately, it's not like this for everyone.

Students at SSU are doing their part to make this Christmas season better for those less fortunate than themselves.

The Honors Association has adopted a family to care for over the holidays. They were responsible for feeding a single mother and her two young children Thanksgiving dinner. For Christmas, they will give the family food and presents as well.

adopted a family. There are five children in the family who are being raised by their grandmother. Last year on Christmas day, they awoke to find no presents under the tree.

This year will be different. Each child will have toys, clothes and books bought for him or her by at least one fraternity or sorority.

Stacey Murdock, the advisor to the Greek Council, says that the grandmother was "just so sincere... she only wanted one gift for each of the kids."

She adds that being involved with the family does something nice for the students too.

the December 9 Buck Night.

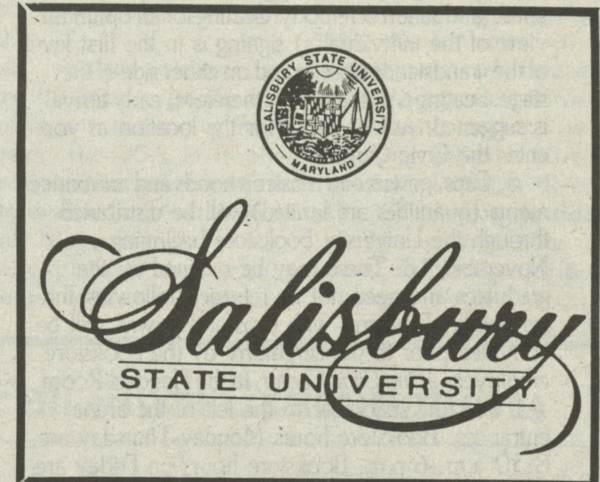

According to Carmen DiSylvestro, associate director of University Dining Services, SUDS's goal "is to enrich... the community of Salisbury, [serving] different facets, whether it be the poor, needy, or homeless."

SUDS president Toni Hughes says that her involvement with this year's program "made me feel good, knowing I can help someone less fortunate than I am."

Collections from tomorrow's Buck Night will be given to the Joseph House, a soup kitchen in Salisbury.

The SGA is trying to help as well. They are spreading the word about a little boy with a brain tumor who has not been given long to live. His wish is to get in the Guinness Book of World Records for having the most get well cards.

"The SGA didn't have enough money or time to

Students engage in dishonest activities

(College Press Service)
MARINA DEL REY, CA -- College and high school students admitted to cheating, lying and stealing in a two-year national study on ethics, a report released in November said.

The study, undertaken by the California-based Josephson Institute of Ethics, involved interviewing 8,965 young people nationwide and focused on ethics. Not all of the young people polled were in school at the time.

"There is a hole in the moral ozone and it is probably getting bigger," said Michael J. Josephson, president of the institute.

The report, he said, is indicative that the present 15- to 30-year old generation is more likely to engage in dishonest and irresponsible behavior than other generations.

"Whether things are worse or not, they are clearly bad enough," the report said.

Among the findings from the survey:

-Sixteen percent of college students and 33 percent of high school students admitted to shoplifting.

-Twenty-one percent of college students said they would falsify a report if necessary to keep a job.

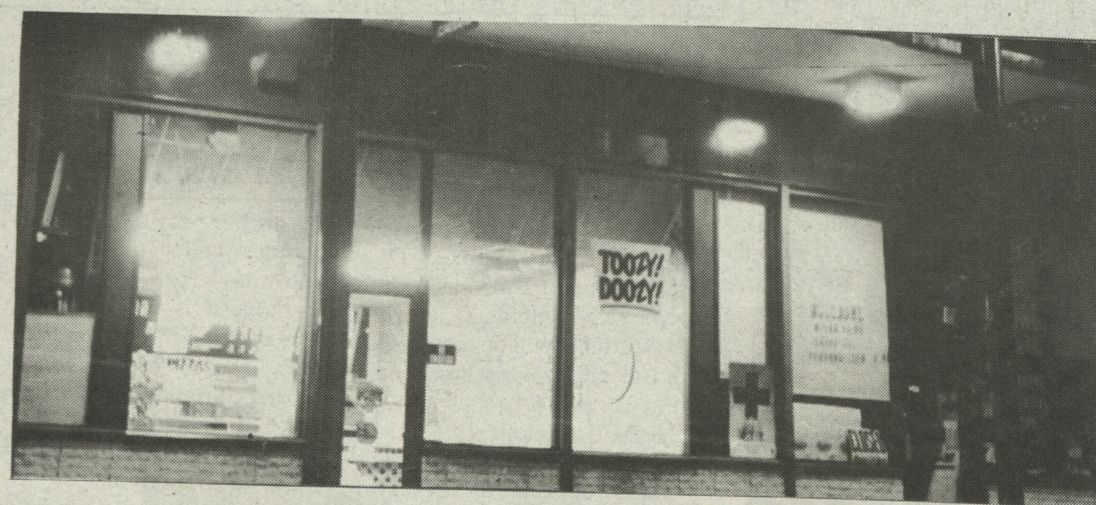

-Sixty-one percent of high school students and 32 percent of college students admitted they cheated on an exam in the past year.

-And, in the area of risky behavior, 25 percent of high school students and 42 percent of college students had unprotected sex in the past year.

"It is very clear there is an increase in cheating. It seems to me that there has been a real slippage in government in the importance of honesty, and children, when they are being socialized, are exposed to this," said Kevin Brien, a philosophy professor at Washington College in Chestertown, Md.

The Josephson Institute is a non-profit organization that studies various aspects of ethics. It took two years to research and complete its study on young people and their attitudes toward lying, cheating and risky behavior.

December 1992 Commencement Information

General Information and Directions (Please read carefully)

1. Commencement will be held at 3 p.m., Sunday, December 20, in the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center. Admission will be by ticket only. All graduates are requested to form for processional at 2 p.m. in the side corridors adjacent to the main arena on the first floor of the Civic Center.
2. The Commencement speaker will be A. Thomas Young, president and chief operating officer of Martin Marietta Corporation.
3. Physically Disabled Guests—Accessible seating is provided on the main floor of the arena. Ask an usher for the location as you enter the Civic Center.
4. Hearing Impaired—Signers are present for the entire graduation ceremony. Seating for an optimum view of the individual(s) signing is in the first level of the grandstands close to and on either side of the stage. Seating is not reserved, therefore, early arrival is suggested. Ask an usher for the location as you enter the Civic Center.
5. Caps, gowns and master's hoods and announcements (quantities are limited) will be distributed through the University bookstore beginning November 18. These may be retained by the graduates and need not be returned following the ceremony. Problems with caps and gowns will be corrected prior to the ceremony by the bookstore employees at the Civic Center, in the Flanders Room #1 near the snack bar to the left of the arena entrances. Bookstore hours Monday-Thursday are 8:30 a.m.-6 p.m. Bookstore hours on Friday are 8:30 a.m.-4 p.m. The bookstore will be open on Saturday, December 19, from 8:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Graduates must pick up the necessary items before 4 p.m. on that date.
- Tickets for graduation will be distributed by the Book Rack. Students will be limited to 12 tickets each. If you do not need all 12 tickets you should return extras to the Guerrieri University Center information desk.
6. Students will be awarded degrees by school (e.g., Fulton School of Liberal Arts), and will be asked by Dr. Bellavance to stand and remain standing until all degrees have been awarded for that school. Bellavance will then signal graduates to move the tassel from the right side to the left side of the mortarboard, and then to be seated.
7. The faculty marshals will give each graduate a 3x5 card containing his/her name and the school, (e.g. Perdue School of Business). The card then is to be given to Dr. Nelson Butler when the graduate reaches the stage, and at the same time, the graduate is to announce his/her name. Butler will then know who the person is and how to pronounce the name correctly. The name on the card must not be changed for any reason.
8. During the recessional graduates and faculty are to return to the area where they assembled prior to the ceremony. They should not stop or congregate in the lobby.
9. Degree candidates who do not plan to participate in the commencement exercise must notify the Registrar's Office by calling 543-6158 no later than Monday, December 14. All graduates will receive a blank folder at commencement, and all diplomas will be mailed approximately six weeks after the ceremony.
10. Faculty and staff are requested to form for the processional at 2:15 p.m. in the Midway Room of the Civic Center. Faculty members are required to attend; those who are unable to do so should so inform their respective school dean.
11. The first aid staff of the Civic Center will be on duty in the office on the right side of the foyer entrance just outside the main arena.
12. A brief reception for graduates and their guests will be held immediately following commencement in the Midway Room of the Civic Center. The reception is sponsored by the Salisbury State University Alumni Association and at the conclusion of the ceremony graduates will be official alumni of Salisbury State University.
13. The ROTC commissioning ceremony will take place at 3 p.m. in Fulton Hall Auditorium on Wednesday, December 23, with a reception following in the Social Room in Holloway Hall. The University community is cordially invited to attend.

14. Bachelor of Science candidates will assemble in the north corridor of the Civic Center (to the left when entering from the front doors and on the side nearest the Salisbury Mall). Candidates with last names beginning with the letter A through letter K (Michael Rene Krauch and Michael Lawrence Kraus) will report to Drs. Stewart and Shaffer and will line up alphabetically along the inside wall, facing east (the rear of the building). You will sit in Section 3 on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the side aisle.

Bachelor of Science candidates beginning with K, Edward Kucharski through the letter Z will report to Drs. Wulff and Rossi, and will line up alphabetically along the windows facing west (the front of the building). You will sit in Section 5 on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the side aisle.

15. All Bachelor of Arts candidates will assemble in the south corridor of the Civic Center (to the right after you enter the front doors on the side nearest to the park). Candidates with last names beginning with the letter A through L, Robert Livermore, will report to Drs. Austin and Basehart at the rear of the corridor and will line up alphabetically facing east (the rear of the building). You will sit in Section 4 on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle.

Bachelor of Arts candidates with last names beginning with M, Sandra Mackay through the letter Z, will also go to the right after you enter the front doors of the Civic Center, but will go to the cross corridor (leading to the Midway Room) and report to Drs. Arlene White and St. Martin. You will line up alphabetically in that corridor against the wall nearest the rear of the building. You will sit in Section 6 on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle and fill in the section starting from the side aisle.

16. Bachelor of Fine Arts (B.F.A.) candidate (Ruth O'Mara) will also go to the right after you enter the front doors of the Civic Center. You will proceed to the cross corridor (leading to the Midway Room) and report to Dr. Arlene White. You will line up according to White's direction and will sit in Section 6 on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seat via the center aisle.

17. B.A.S.W. candidates will also go to the right after you enter the front doors of the Civic Center. You will proceed to the cross corridor (leading to the Midway Room) and report to Dr. Arlene White. You will line up alphabetically in that corridor against the wall nearest the front of the building. You will also sit in Section 6 on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle.

18. All Master's candidates (M.A., M.Ed., M.S., M.B.A.) will enter the Civic Center at the Midway Room front entrance (closest to the park), and report to a faculty marshal in that corridor.

M.A., M.S. and M.B.A. candidates will report to Dr. Connie White. You will line up according to her direction, alphabetically by degree, and will sit in Section 7 on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle.

M. Ed. candidates will report to Dr. Berry and line up alphabetically at his direction. You will also sit in Section 7 on the seating chart. After you have walked across the stage, you are to return to your seats via the center aisle and fill in the section starting from the side aisle.

19. Dress Code

This is a formal academic occasion and should be viewed as such in dress and demeanor.

The academic robe is black and the recommended dress, therefore, is:

- A. Women
 1. Black dress shoes (or some other dark color) - no white or other light color.
 2. Dress hose, preferably not white or a light color.
 3. A dress which does not have a high neckline or stand-up collar. It should not show above the V-neckline on the robe.

Since the academic robe has a zipper front closing, the dress will show only near the lower hem and, therefore, preferably should be a dark color, rather than white or very light.

4. No visible jewelry. Fraternity or sorority pins/ribbons may be worn; these are academic emblems and are not considered jewelry as such.
5. No flowers on the academic robe, and no flowers are to be carried to the stage.

- B. Men
 1. Black dress shoes (or some dark color) - no sneakers or light color sport shoes with thick rubber soles.
 2. Dark color socks - no white athletic socks.
 3. Dress slacks, preferably a dark or neutral color.
 4. Dress shirt, preferably white, or a light color.
 5. Dress tie (four-in-hand tie with Windsor knot). (Shirt collar and tie will show above the V-neckline of the academic robe.)
 6. Suit coat or sport coat will not be seen under the robe and is, therefore, optional.
 7. No visible jewelry. Fraternity pins/ribbons may be worn; these are academic emblems and are not considered jewelry as such.

- C. Both
 1. The mortarboard (academic hat) is to be worn with the front point over the forehead below the front hairline, so the flat board is parallel to the floor. (Not worn on the back of the head with the board pointing upward.) No decoration of any kind is to be placed on the mortarboard.
 2. Candidates for the bachelor's degree should come into the auditorium with the tassel on the right, hanging near the right eye. After the degrees are conferred, the tassel is shifted to the left side. The signal for shifting the tassel will be given by President Bellavance and/or your faculty marshal.
 3. Candidates for the master's degree should place the tassel at the left front of the mortarboard prior to entering the auditorium and should not shift it.
 4. Master's degree candidates will wear the robe, but will carry the hood over the left arm until they reach the stage, where it will be placed on the candidate. Faculty marshals will give you more specific information.
 5. Graduates will receive graduation picture information from Market South/Specialists in Graduate and Event Photography. This information will arrive at your permanent address in the near future.
 20. Graduation Decorum

Graduation ceremonies are by their very nature festive occasions. The festivity manifests itself in many ways including the dress of the students and faculty adorned in academic regalia and the warmth, joy and satisfaction of accomplishment. The ceremonies are also marked by seriousness where the actual conferring of degrees signifies long hard work on the part of everyone involved: students, faculty, administrators, parents and spouses. As a consequence of the serious nature of the ceremony, students are expected to maintain a measure of decorum consonant with the occasion. Applause and other recognition of the conferring of degrees should be limited to a joint effort at the conclusion of each graduation group. (e.g., B.S., B.A., etc.).

SGA initiates changes at Salisbury State

Dec. 12 from one to 10 p.m. "We are trying to get it so [the bus] will eventually run every Saturday to the mall, and maybe pick up students at bars so they don't have to drive drunk. But we're not sure if that will work," said Herman.

To help Salisbury students at Book Buy Back time, the SGA has been working to make sure students can sell back more of their books.

SGA Senator Stephanie Havenner, who worked in the Book Rack over the summer, and said that she learned when professors do not turn in their book orders on time, students lose money.

"I am not blaming professors or the Book Rack. There is just a miscommunication between them," said Havenner. "Professors just do not realize the consequences of turning in their book orders late."

Final exams held late

rude that the Jewish students can't celebrate Hanukkah at home."

According to Saulsbury the finals are so late because the SSU semester is 15 weeks of classes and one week of exams.

Many students feel that the semester of classes may be too long. Hullinger says, "I have friends at the University of Delaware that started only a few days earlier and they get out before Dec. 18."

In addition, the spring semester at Salisbury will also be affected by the current system. Final exams in the spring will not be over until the end of May.

She explained that when professors are late turning in their orders, the Book Rack does not know what books they need for next semester.

If a professor does not inform the Book Rack that he/she will be using the same books for the class next semester, students cannot sell back their books.

The SGA now has a plan to eliminate this problem. Before Thanksgiving Break it sent letters to all professors, reminding them to get their orders in on time.

In addition, vice president of academic affairs Nelson Butler, in cooperation with the SGA, announced at the Faculty Forum meeting that orders are due and explained the importance of getting them in on time.

Havenner reported that this program has been very successful. "Only 18 have not turned in their orders yet. That's much better than usual."

Also, in an attempt to improve the professor evaluations at the end of every semester, the SGA is in the process of making "evaluations of the evaluations," said SGA senator Alison Barnes.

She explained that many students feel the professor evaluations are ineffective.

For example, Barnes cited that there are some evaluations "that don't have one question about the instructors themselves. All they ask about is the course."

To make the evaluations more effective, the SGA wants to make changes so that all of the evaluations in every department ask basically the same things, said Barnes.

Nelson Butler, who is working with the SGA on this project as well, will consider the SGA's suggestions for changes in evaluations. He will then ultimately decide what changes to make.

Wednesday December 23	Monday 7:50 a.m. Classes	Tuesday 3, 3:30, 4 p.m. Classes	Monday 4 p.m. Classes

Examination times are determined by the initial hour at which the class meets each week unless the course is specifically listed on the schedule above.

For classes which have their initial weekly meeting on Wednesday or Friday, but not on Monday, use the comparable Monday meeting time. For classes which have their initial meeting time on Thursday, but not on Tuesday, use the comparable Tuesday meeting time.

If the class meets for longer than one hour, the first hour is applicable. In lecture-lab classes, the exam time is determined by the lecture hour.

All single-section courses will hold examinations in the room in which the class regularly meets unless otherwise announced by the instructor.

Examination locations for multi-section courses will be announced in each class by the instructor by Friday, December 11.

A student who has more than two final examinations scheduled for the same day need not take more than two of these exams on that day. If the student wants to reschedule examinations, then the following procedure must be completed no later than one full week prior to the beginning of final exams:

*The student must provide each of the professors involved with a written copy of the complete examination schedule, including course numbers, section numbers and names of professors.

* The professors whose final examinations are scheduled third, fourth, fifth, etc.. on the day in question will then reschedule their exams for that student, choosing days in the final examination period on which the student has fewer than two exams. The professors will also inform the student prior to the last day of classes when and where the examinations will be given.

*In the event that a professor finds it particularly difficult to reschedule an examination, that professor may contact the other professors involved to make alternate arrangements so that all exams are given to the student while meeting the above requirements.

Any student who has more than one examination scheduled for the same time period should contact the professors involved to make alternate arrangements.

Job market inadequate for college graduates

(College Press Service)
WASHINGTON, D.C. — Two studies by the U.S. Labor Department suggest what many college graduates already know: A growing number of graduates hold jobs that don't require college degrees.

The reports, by economists Daniel E. Hecker and Kristina J. Shelley, were written earlier this year but are now just gaining national media attention. While the studies found that college graduates still earn more than high school graduates, they also found that many recent college graduates are working in jobs that don't require undergraduate degrees.

"If a goal is to make money, students have to be careful in picking a major," Shelly said, noting that neither study broke down specific degrees and jobs obtained after graduation.

Hecker, however, determined that students with degrees in engineering or nursing have better chances of getting a job in their field than students with liberal arts degrees.

In Hecker's analysis, he found that from 1983 to 1990 the number of college graduates working as street vendors or door-to-door salesworkers increased from 57,000 to 75,000; those employed as maids, janitors and cleaners increased from 72,000 to 83,000; and truck and bus drivers increased from 99,000 to 166,000.

What is causing this backlog is the fact that there are more college graduates now than there are available jobs requiring a degree.

From 1979 to 1990, the number of college graduates in the labor force grew from 17.9 million to 29 million. In the same period, the number of college graduates who were in jobs that did not require a degree or who were unemployed increased by 81 percent to about 5.8 million.

Things were far different in the 1960s, Hecker found. College graduates were heavily recruited by corporations. "Few graduates, regardless of their field of study, had difficulty finding college-level managerial, professional speciality, technical and sales representative jobs," he wrote. "According to analyst Richard Freeman, jobs sought graduates."

Shelly estimates that if job and education trends continue, about 30 percent of college graduates entering the work force from 1990 to 2005 will work in jobs that don't require a degree.

"My analysis is dependent on the economy going the right way. People can draw their own conclusions," she said. "I am not trying to give someone a reason for going to college or not. The fact is that more people are educating themselves, and that job growth for required degrees is growing."

"People go to college for many reasons, not just for what they can earn," Hecker said. "For most people, college pays. But for some, it doesn't, at least not right away."

College students lie, cheat

"While there is significant evidence that the present 15 to 30-year old generation is more likely to engage in dishonest and irresponsible conduct than previous generations, truly comparable benchmarks do not exist to establish this fact," the report said. "But whether things are measurably worse or not, they are clearly bad enough."

One in eight college students said they lied to insurance companies, inflated expense claims, lied on financial aid forms and borrowed money with the intent of not paying it back. At least 83 percent of high school students and 61 percent of college students lied to their parents at least once in the past 12 months.

"It is in no way suggested that this group of young people are moral mutants who are genetically disposed to self-serving and short-sighted conduct," the report says. "Instead, the survey reveals that their negative dispositions often developed in an atmosphere where cheaters regularly prosper and honesty is not the best policy."

Brien said that the Iran-Contra affair, and other government and financial scandals in the past 12 years, may have a direct connection with student attitudes about honesty and integrity.

What was disturbing about the results, researchers said, was the amount of cynicism expressed both by high school and college students. Nearly 25 percent of high school students and 20 percent of college students agreed with the statement, "It is not unethical to do whatever you have to do to succeed if you don't seriously hurt other people."

Additionally, 74 percent of college students, as opposed to 51 percent of people polled who were not in school, agreed that, "most people will cheat or lie when it is necessary to get what they want."

Society needs to teach a core of ethical values and "every social institution has the responsibility to promote the development of good character," the report said. "Since people do not automatically develop good moral character, conscientious efforts must be made to help young people develop the values and abilities necessary for moral decision-making and conduct."

Black and White in the English language: A tired stereotype

"Bad guys wear black and good guys wear white," that's what most of us were taught when we were growing up. But what was the big difference between the two colors that made one better than the other? Some may say that there is no difference but the English language itself, is one of the main examples of this difference. I know in writing this editorial, some may choose to blackmail me into retracting the statements that I am about to make. They may also force me to say that they were only white lies. But the truth is the truth, so I will speak it.

In story books, the wicked witch wore black while on the other hand the good witch wore white. The wicked witch was ugly and wrinkled but the good witch was always young and pretty. These are parts of English literature that caused children to start believing an untrue stereotype. So maybe we should whitewash these stereotypes and start all over again since the English language is a contributor to racism. Oh, my fault, I should take that back before I become blacklisted by faculty members on this campus. You know that it is wrong to blacken the English language. Although I am already having bad luck since a black cat crossed my path last week, so I guess there is no need to white-wash my statements. Now don't get me wrong, I'm not trying to be black-hearted or give the English language a blackeye but these are the facts. If there are any words to which you don't know the definitions, please check Webster's dictionary.

Anyway, while walking this over to the Flyer office, I noticed a black cloud forming over the University Center. I was hoping that a storm wouldn't come and cause a blackout like last year on parent's weekend. I really hate when everything is so black and you can't see. The last time there was a blackout in Baltimore, a telephone pole caused a fire on my street. It was so much black damp that you couldn't see the Inner Harbor.

In history the Black Plague better known as the Black Death, caused many deaths. That was a black day in history. Black leg even affected the cattle and sheep causing a loss of meat for the people of that specific time period. And the miners suffered from black lung because of the coal dust. Many deaths have also been caused by the deadly black widow spider. But through years of deceit, people have tried to whiten the facts so that they don't look as bad as they really appear to be.

I hope you don't consider this a black deed or black comedy, but these are just things that I have begun to notice in my semesters at college. So don't go to the black market and buy a gun to shoot me or hire the Black Hand because of what I have said. Some may even feel that this editorial is a black head to all the "progress" we have supposedly made in the last year. Yet others, will be truthful and honest with their opinions, and to you I say that's very white of you!

All of us are always going to do better tomorrow, and we would too, if we only started today. In closing I would like to say that this wasn't done to be funny but to make you think and say Hmmm! If I hurt anyone's feeling, that's what was intended because you are trying to hide from the truth. And in life, for us to make a better tomorrow, we have to start today. So don't give into stereotypes or let the English language hold you to prehistoric ideas. The nineties is a different world, witness things for yourself and draw your own conclusions. For in today's world, a child educated only at school is an uneducated child!

-William Wells

Boggs Apologizes

After spending four years at SSU, I believe a great deal of our education takes place outside of the classroom. One of the ways that we can learn is from understanding mistakes we have made. I feel that I have made one of these mistakes, thus I am now going to try to learn from it.

In a November issue of The Flyer, I criticized Jeff Barnes and Tony D'Antonio, who both work for the Housing and Residence Life office. In the "Timeout with Boggs" column, I questioned the policies of the Housing office and accused Barnes and D'Antonio of abusing their positions within that office.

About two weeks later, I happened to view the movie "Absence of Malice." In that film, a young reporter runs a damaging story about a man she never even contacted for comment. I did the exact same thing. I never considered calling Barnes or D'Antonio to get their side of the story. All I did was take the information that I was told by an outside party and treat it as the Gospel. Well friends, you can't always believe what people tell you.

I now realize that what I did was totally wrong and unfair. I accused them of abusing their position when in reality, I abused my position at The Flyer. Let me stress that stabbing people in the back was not my intention at all. I wanted to question the housing offices' treatment of WSUR with regard to the station providing music for the annual Halloween dance.

Unfortunately, I did so in an irresponsible manner and I am sorry. I know that any damage that has been done to Barnes and D'Antonio may be irreversible. I have contacted them and shared my regrets and I wish to also apologize to any other members of the campus community that I have offended.

I believe that it is essential for the student body to be involved in the issues that affect it and raise concerns when student's needs are not met. But, if questions are posed in a medium such as The Flyer, it is the responsibility of the writer to act in a fair way. I was wrong and I feel that I have learned a good lesson. It will not happen again.

Letters to the Editor

Keep an eye for the pizza man

Dear Editor,

On Nov. 17, 1992 (five days before my youngest child's second birthday), I was robbed after delivering a pizza on campus. I would like to apologize in advance to the staff and entire student body if this crime was not perpetrated by a student, but evidence suggests that it was done by students.

Two males accosted me in the parking lot adjacent to Chesapeake Hall. They tackled me and forcibly took the cash I had. They ran in the direction of Maggs Gym, but turned right past Caruthers Hall towards the center of campus. The assailants were dressed in black sweatsuits with dark ski masks.

"What's the point?" you may ask. If these were students, I don't understand the motive. It was not a lot of money, so they must have done it for the thrill. Well, let's see. They proved that two large males can successfully manhandle an unsuspecting 5 foot 5 inch pizza deliverer from behind. Big tough guys, huh?

Just in case they read this, and assuming that they have a conscience, they should know a few things. Pizza delivery is my only job. I am trying to support my wife and three children, and go back to SSU to finish my degree. The robbery cost me $35.00, which was to be spent on one or more birthday present for my soon to be two-year-old.

I would like to implore all students to keep their eyes and ears open at all times. Report anything, no matter how seemingly insignificant, to campus security. I would like to express that this incident does not alter my perception of SSU students as being kind, generous, and helpful.

If I could make a wish in light of this occurrence, it would be to have the guys who did this take off their masks, look into the eyes of my six-year old, and explain to him how someone could do this to someone else. I can't explain it myself.

I hope that God forgives the guys who did this, because I can't.

Disillusioned pizza man,
Todd A. Smith

Recognize '86 Football's memorable season

Dear Editor,

In this recent era of controversy of fair representation of Salisbury State Athletic teams, it has come to my attention that many of our sports teams since 1986 have been recognized for outstanding performance by banners being hung in the gymnasium of Maggs Physical Activities Center.

Ironically, the sport that "supposedly" receives preferential treatment in the eyes of others, seems to have been shortchanged on a very laudable accomplishment.

The 1986 Seagull football team received national recognition and exposure for this institution rich in athletic tradition by completing its regular season with a 10-0 record. The team advanced to the finals of the Division III national football championship. Along the way to the nationally televised finals, the Seagulls earned the distinction of Lambert Cup Champs, ECAC Team of the Year, and finished 13-1 (ranked 2nd in the nation in the final poll).

When the banners were first raised in Maggs PAC, several former members of the football team expressed their disenchantment about not being recognized for their accomplishments. They were told that banners were only hung for championship teams.

After recently returning to Maggs, I was shocked to see the newest addition to the walls of the gymnasium. Next to the 1986 Field Hockey banner hangs a banner recognizing a great season recently completed by the men's lacrosse team. The banner reads "1991 Men's Lacrosse, Regular season 13-0, 2nd in the nation." This leaves me slightly confused because the lacrosse team didn't win a championship either.

Our situations are quite similar in that both teams completed their seasons undefeated, and advanced to the finals before losing. Although I do feel that the Lax teams effort to gain a national championship deserves recognition in the way of a banner being hung in Maggs, I feel many people will agree with me, that in fair representation the 1986 Football Team also deserves recognition with a banner. It will be interesting to hear the administration's rationale for this one.

Sincerely,
Christopher Higgins

Speech codes are ludicrous

Dear Editor,

It seems that in its defense of the constitution, the Supreme Court has once again stepped on the toes of those who would rather throw it in the trash than work within its confines to promote equality in America.

Whose toes am I talking about? I am talking about the toes of those fanatics who wish to run for shelter under the protection of speech codes. Although these people seek protection under the law, they seem to want to rewrite those laws which do not particularly serve their purpose. Those who support speech codes seem to support a revision of the First Amendment that would guarantee free speech so long as that speech does not offend minorities. To me this attitude is ludicrous.

Those who support speech codes state that words can be as much, if not more damaging than physical attacks. I refute this idea. There is no doubt that words can hurt, but the pain caused by words is relative. It cannot be measured. The crime in using hate speech is that it reveals the true ignorance of whoever chooses to use it.

By setting limits on speech, American colleges and universities are helping to further destroy the already lost art of discussion. They, in a sense, are sending American back into the dark ages of western culture.

Like it or not, the fire of ignorance continues to rage in America. Words are not the fuel. Attitudes are. We cannot and we will not put out the fire by curbing speech. Curbing speech will only seek to foster the spread of the fire.

I think that it is time for colleges and universities, ours included, to stop using speech codes as a scapegoat and start tackling the problems of inequality head on by using real solutions instead of misguided and weak rules which do nothing more than beg for the Constitution to be thrown in the garbage. If they do not, all these so-called institutions of progress and change will develop into perverse prisons of repression where the very life of the constitution and America will be strangled and destroyed.

Sincerely,
Tom "Corky" Korrow

Drunk Driving prevails

Dear Editor,

I am writing out of concern for the students at SSU, myself being one of them. I don't think we as a campus, or even this idea. There is no doubt that words can hurt, but the pain caused by words is relative. It cannot be measured. The crime in using hate speech is that it reveals time you finish reading through this paper, someone will already have died.

Our age group, unfortunately, is the biggest culprit. We (aged 16-24) make up only 17% of licensed drivers, but 44% of all fatal alcohol-related crashes. It's a fact that on weekends, almost one out of every 10 cars is being driven by a drunk driver.

And remember, you don't have to be bombed for something to happen. A few beers can screw up your judgment enough for you to accidentally miss a stop sign, or go through a red light.

I am not writing this to scare anyone. I just wanted to remind everyone how important it is to always designate a sober driver when going out. What's one night every now and then?

As a part of National Drunk/Drugged Driving Awareness Week (Dec. 7-11) the Alcohol & Drug Prevention Resource Center and Guerrieri University Center are sponsoring a "Don't Let Your Friends Steer You Wrong" campaign all week in the lobby of the University Center, by the Book Rack. They will be accepting your pledges to "Steer Sober," and those who pledge will receive a red ribbon, which can be hung on the Christmas tree in the lounge across from the Gull's Nest. Please stop by and show your support. Help make our campus and your home community safer places to live!

Sincerely,
Joy Marowski

Salisbury happy hours supply chow for poor

by Benn Ray, staff writer

Let's face it, brothers and sisters, living in this economy isn't easy. So, whenever you see something that's free, exploit the hell out of it.

As a public service, I spent this past Friday hitting the happy hours in town to find free food.

After a series of phone calls, I managed to assemble a group of impoverished and hungry losers to help me with this project. Starting at 4 pm, we met at Rosko's with a plan: eat as much as you can, pay as little as possible, and move on to the next bar.

As far as food goes, Rosko's has the best. Last Friday they served pizza bread; they had a nacho/taco bar, and they served wings so hot that they'll make your nose bleed.

In the past they have served things like black beans and Spanish rice. The bar, at this time of day, is generally not crowded, which means easy access to the food. The problem with Rosko's is that they don't keep the food bar well stocked.

After an exceptionally hungry SSU student, Karen Bennett, cleaned out the pizza bread tray, there was a 25 minute wait before it was restocked.

The music at Rosko's during happy hour is annoying. As one fellow loser put it, "they play that lite rock that wants to drive you out of the bar." So, after finishing our drinks, we were off to the next bar.

Now, when hitting happy hours for free meals I recommend iced tea. It is cheap, most places give you free refills, and it won't fill you up like beer does. Thus, you have more room for food and leave with more money in your pocket.

Remember, this is a feeding frenzy, not a drink fest. The goal is to load up on free food.

The next stop on this journey was Classics. However, walking in was a mistake. There sat a bar full of well-dressed middle agers chatting politely about the state of the market and about how much BMW prices have increased in the last couple of years.

Upon our entrance, they all looked up at us, a group of hunger-crazed losers. Yet, this was a quest. So, for the sake of free food, we could handle being at a bar patronized by the likes of those type of people.

The place was crowded, so we elected SSU student Rev. Alan Reid to be the recon man. His job was to find out what was in those silver food trays before we mugged with the beautiful people for seats.

He returned and reported, with a look of sadness in his eyes, "there was only one small shrimp in the tray and it had been there a long time. I could tell because it was room temperature when I ate it."

Since happy hour is under a time limit, we couldn't chance a lengthy wait for a refill, so it was off to the Flying Club.

On Friday, the Flying Club had a nice spread: breads, coleslaw, assorted condiments and a huge chunk o' meat with a guy to slice it up for you.

They had a live DJ playing classic rock and some guy from Y-99 giving away free meals, bar tabs, and Budweiser products. He challenged SSU Alumnus Brian Aurand to use the word juxtapose in a sentence for a free Bud ball-cap. Aurand was victorious with the statement "I want to juxtapose myself against your wife."

Reluctantly, the Y-99 guy gave up the cap and left us alone for the rest of the night. One of the losers who refused my advice about iced tea began to over-indulge in the low drink prices. Every two minutes he would announce to the bar "every hour is happy hour in Somalia."

We tried many bars last Friday night, and in some there really wasn't a lot of free food. But, if you want a cheap date idea or just someplace you can eat for free, hit Rosko's or the Flying Club between 4-7 pm on Fridays. Fill your gut for free. After all, it's the American way.

Wind Sinfonia performs tomorrow

The Salisbury State University Wind Sinfonia will present a winter performance on Wed., Dec. 9, at 8 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium. Admission to the performance is free and open to the public.

Selections for the performance include: "Toccata Marziale" by Ralph Vaughan Williams, "Chorale and Alleluia" by Howard Hanson, "Occident Et Orient Grande Marche, Op. 25" by Camille saint Saens, "After a Gentle Rain" by Anthony Iannaccone, "Niles Dance" by David R. Holsinger and a "B.B. and C.F. march" by Ord Hume.

Guest conductor for the winter performance is Lisa M. Dubuque, who presently serves as undergraduate conducting associate to the Wind Sinfonia. Dubuque is a senior majoring in music education at SSU and studies conducting with Dr. Richard L. Johnson, director of wind studies at Salisbury State. In addition to her music studies, Dubuque serves as president of the Maryland Educators national Conference student chapter 416 at Salisbury State, a position that she has held for the past two years. Dubuque studies applied saxophone with Mae Higgins and has served as principal chair in the Wind Sinfonia since her freshman year.

The Wind Sinfonia received statewide recognition in 1991-92 for its appearance as one of two clinic ensembles for a conducting workshop titled, "Developing Effective Rehearsal/Conducting Techniques"; Johnson and Dr. Harlan D. Parker of the Peabody conservatory of Music were the clinicians. The workshop was part of the Maryland Music Educators all state in-service conference held at Ocean City in March. The ensemble has been reinvented to serve as the accompanying group for the all state junior chorus in March 1993.

THINGS THAT SUCK

THE THEME SONG

Sung to the tune of "My Favorite Things" from The Sound of Music.

Biting on tin foil, dog farts and foot fungus, high impact aerobics, mosquitos that stung us, paying the phone bill when its ninety bucks, these are a few of the things I think suck.

Lyme ticks and Oprah and big oozing blisters, dandruff and back zits and pesky big sisters,
a life threatening bone crushing wreck with a truck,
these are a few of the things I think suck.

When hung-over, when the grades stink,
when I'm feeeeeling saaaaaad, I simply
remember some things that suck worse,
and then I don't feeeeel sooo baaaaad!

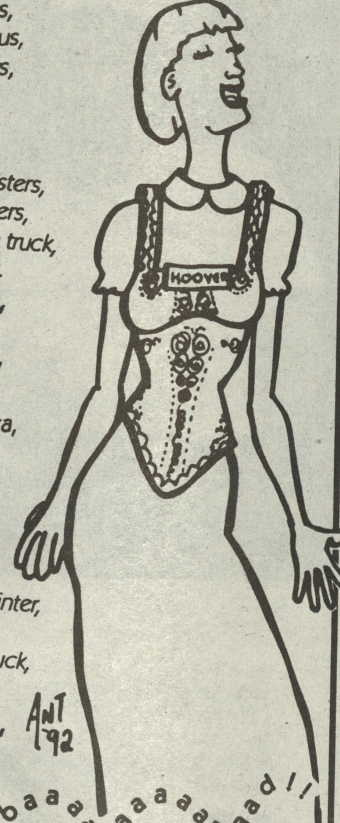

Burning your mouth on a hot piece of pizza, calling her Nancy when her name is Lisa,
taking a gamble and having no luck,
these are a few of the things I think suck.

Hat head and bed head, a big wooden splinter, licking a pole in the middle of winter,
thinking of things that rhyme with the sound uck,
these are a few of the things I think suck.

When the car dies, when the pipes burst,
when I'm feeeeeling saaaaaad, I simply
remember some things that suck worse,
and then I don't feeeeel soooooooooooooo

Timeout... Swim team unhappy with short season with Boggs by Michael J. Boggs, sports columnist

Well, the question has been asked a million times since last year's men's basketball season ended. "Who will replace Andre?"

Not surprisingly, the answer to that very question has not changed. "No one can!"

Last weekend's Gull Classic gave us a chance to see the "new" Seagulls. After seeing them in action, here's my thoughts, whether you want them or not.

When Dameon Ross is hot, he is very, very hot. Ross can shoot from anywhere on the court, whether he's open or has a man in his face.

Unfortunately, if team's choose to focus on him, it makes life tougher for the Gulls. (Example - second half of the Greensboro game)

Without question, the most improved player on the team is guard Tom Wolfe. He has not turned the ball over often and he is seeing the court well. His hustle is also non-stop.

Kevin Cromer and Ed Farrell have both been asked to step up their scoring punch with the loss of Foreman. I think they are capable of putting the rock in the bucket, but it's going to take a few games for them to feel completely comfortable.

Cromer is the most unselfish player on the court, which he may now have to curbe. In a close game, he's going to have to take the shot at the end if it's there. In the past, he has looked to dish. That will change as the season progresses.

Another player who seems to be searching for a role is Bret Grebowsky. He was a shooting guard in high school at DeMatha, and it looks as if he would rather be at that position. There's no doubt that he can handle the ball, but he may in fact be better off the bench at the two guard position with Wolfe at point. (Just a thought)

I think Aaron Wood's play at center has been solid and he has shown an ability to can the outside jumper if he's left open. Speaking of ability, Kyle Jefferson has plenty of (continued on page 20)

Swim team unhappy with short season

by Joe Herman, assistant sports editor

Last Saturday, the Salisbury State Women's swim team finished their last home meet in dominating fashion as they crushed Coppin State in front of a full house of spectators.

Many of the swimmers celebrated by throwing each other in the pool including their head coach Christine Wagner.

However, their were still a number of mixed emotions among many members on the team. The swimmers were pleased that they increased their record to 6-2, but they were upset that they only have one meet left this year.

"Since the other schools have full year programs, they're just starting their season, where ours is ending," said Wagner.

The current reasons why Salisbury has only a half year program is it costs too much money to heat the pool over winter and the added costs of transportation.

Men's swim club member Bryan Snyder contends "If the program is changed to last year round, the school will get more money because the swimmers would be forced to stay for winter term."

Dr. Mark Williams, chairman of the athletic committee points out "SSU is the only school in the nation that doesn't have a full year swim program."

In addition, since the other schools have full year programs, they train continuously until the playoffs in March. But, because SSU's swim program is only a half year, many excellent swimmers such as Eileen Messenger, Lisa Kidd, and Amy Van Driessche may never be able to compete in post season play unless the present program is changed.

Considering that Many of Salisbury's swimmers are already defeating other swimmers who have full year programs, it would be interesting to see what these talented swimmers could do in post season play if given the opportunity.

Santa Claus visits Andy Sachs early

by Pete the Sports Guy, guest columnist

Santa Claus came early this year for Andy Sachs.

Remember him?

The guy who wore the $400 dollar suits and sat next to Ward Lambert during Salisbury State University men's basketball team's 28-2 campaign last season.

Well, when Sachs walked onto the floor at Maggs Gym on Wednesday night, the scenario was a bit different. He was still clad in his $400 dollar suit, but when he took his place on the bench it was not beside Lambert. He sat down next to Terry Butterfield, head coach at Virginia Wesleyan College and watched as the Blue Marlins made SSU pay for every turnover and missed shot.

At times, you could see him get somewhat nervous as the Gulls began to chip away at an 18 point deficit, but SSU never

"Andy is a tireless recruiter, and because of that he'll continue to do well at every level. I know we'll miss him."

--Ward Lambert

got within four point of Wesleyan and Sachs came home and watched the Marlins clinch a 101-88 win.

"Salisbury has a deeper team than we do," Sachs said. "I knew our kids were well prepared and would play hard, but I never expected that kind of a game."

At the end of last season, Sachs decided to leave the Eastern Shore of Maryland and trek down to Virginia to try his hand at coaching tennis as well as assisting Butterfield this season with recruiting.

"He's been a great addition to our program. All you have to do is see the talent Salisbury has, and most of that is an attribute of his hard work in the recruiting area, and with more dollars available here we hope we can get the same results," Butterfield said.

"I played tennis in high school, and now I am coaching that (tennis) along with getting more money to recruit with, and this area is great. The weather's a little warmer too," Sachs said.

More money for recruiting means a new challenge for Sachs, as he must sell a school that costs 14,000 dollars a year to attend. But he should have no problems facing this challenge.

During his tenure at SSU, his recruiting budget was much smaller and if you look at the players that are suiting up this season for SSU, it is evident that Sachs has a knack for recruiting and he does it well.

"Andy is a tireless recruiter, and because of that he'll continue to do well at every

Walsh College dethrones SSU men's team

by Mary Yankosky, Sports Editor

Salisbury State.

Greensboro College notched a 53-51 win over Manhattenville College in the consolation game.

After tournament play, SSU's record stands at 3-3 while Walsh's record remains unblemished at 5-0.

"(We) have really improved from our first game," said head coach Ward Lambert.

The post Andre Foreman era has begun for the Salisbury State University men's basketball team, and for the most part the team has done fairly well in its first six games of the 1992-1993 campaign.

The team entered last weekend's Gull Classic with a 2-1 record.

Their two wins came against St. Mary's College and Methodist College, while Francis Marion and Virginia Wesleyan handed them their only losses.

The Sea Gulls opened up the Gull Classic in style, securing a spot in Saturday night's championship game against the Walsh College Cavaliers, with a 77-75 win over Greensboro College (North Carolina) on Friday night.

Walsh, a team from Canton, Ohio, reached the final game with a convincing win over Manhattenville on Friday afternoon.

On Saturday, the Cavaliers posted an 80-69 and dethroned defending champions,

"We still have things to work on, like our lack of rebounding."

The Cavaliers did not waste any time getting started on Saturday night, as they outscored the Sea Gulls 14-1 in the first five minutes of the game.

Corry Appline led Walsh's early scoring attack, tallying eight of the 14 points.

The Sea Gulls slowly began to chip away at the 14 point deficit, and with a little over six minute left in the half, Kyle Jefferson scored six unanswered points to help SSU battle back and tie the score, 22-22, but this was as close as the Gulls would get.

"We have to play the full 40 minute, and I think once we put everything together, we will do well," Ed Farrell said. "We have to learn to play all 40 minutes."

Dameon Ross who led all SSU scorers with 28 points in Saturday's game, was named to the all-tournament team.

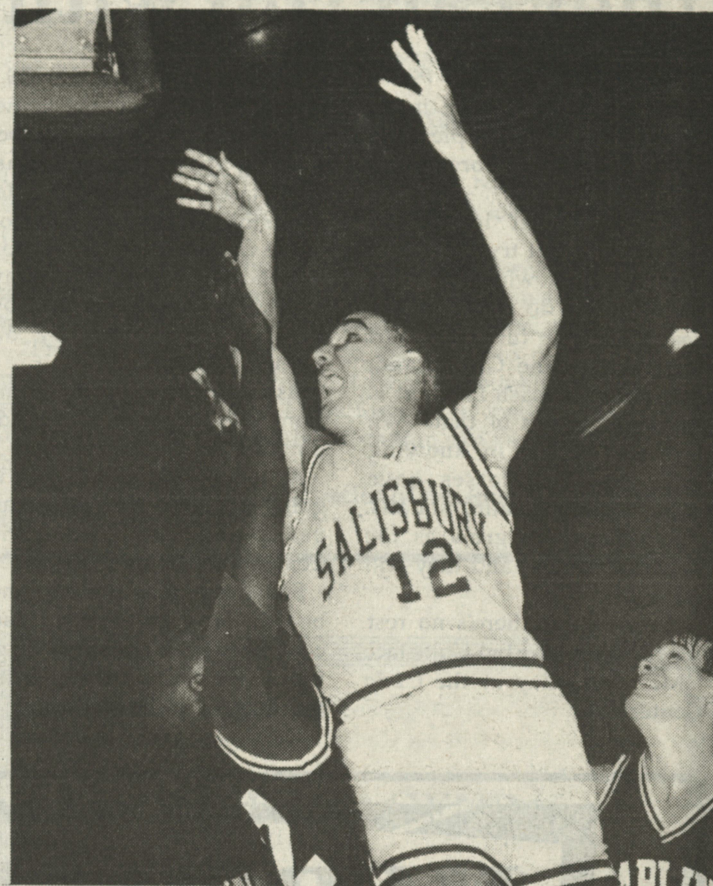

"We have to play the full 40 minute, and I think once we put everything together, we will do well," -- Ed Farrell

Aaron Wood and Jefferson both reached double figures with 10 points.

Tom Wolfe, who leads the team in assists and has come off the bench and played extremely well added seven points, six assists, four rebounds and four steals for the Sea Gulls.

"He (Wolfe) has done a nice job, he plays more confidently," Lambert said.

"I am confident about my game now," Wolfe said. I have settled into my role and I understand what I need to do."

Women fall short of Classic title

by Joe Herman, assistant sports editor

In the championship game of the Gull Classic this past Saturday, the Salisbury State women's basketball team came up short as they lost their first game of the season to Wilmington College 103-94.

Although Wilmington College led most of the first half, SSU never let up and took the lead for most of the second half.

As the end of the game

For Salisbury, Jen Boone and Kim Roth made the all-tournament team. Roth had 21 points and 14 rebounds, while Boone and Fenzel added 16 and 13 points respectively.

On Friday, SSU defeated St. Mary's College of Maryland upping their record to 4-0 on the season, thus leading to the championship game.

"We played a good game," said Roth. "I thought we played hard, but it would have been nice to win."

The Gulls now stand at 4-1,

"We played a good game. I thought we played hard."

--Kim Roth

approached, both teams exchanged baskets and leads.

With a couple minutes remaining Wilmington took over the lead for good after a few questionable fouls that were called against the Gulls.

Patti Tanner was named MVP of the tournament as she led Wilmington with 22 points and 15 rebounds. Missy Burris, and Jenny Asbury were also on the all-tournament team for the Wildcats.

and will clash against Widener at home on Saturday December 12.

"I'm a little disappointed, but the girls hustled and gave a great effort," said Coach Benshetler. "We just gave them two many second shots and a couple calls didn't go our way. "We're anticipating to come out hard against Widener and be 5-1 at the break."

Men's team will be fine if they can run with UMES

potential. Just a little more confidence, and people may stop asking about Foreman at all.

Right now, it looks like Salisbury is still trying to find it's chemistry which is what most teams do early in the season. Dumb turnovers hurt the team in the Gull Classic and I'm sure coach Lambert is reminding them of that. We can take solace in knowing that the three losses have come against quality squads.

Salisbury will grow as the season continues and they will only get better.

As they say, there's no rest for the weary, as the Gulls face UMES Thursday at the Civic Center.

What gives with UMES. Last year, they were the home team and this year they will be wearing the white uniforms once again. Their people argue that no Division I school in the country visits a Division III school. Well, not many Division I schools get beat by Division III squads by 37 points either.

As for the game, Salisbury is going to have to play near perfect to leave the Civic Center with a win. Last year,

Foreman dominated the boards and everyone else couldn't miss. This time, unless the Gulls get hot from the field, it could get ugly. I just don't think Salisbury will be able to stick with the Hawks on the boards. (I like UMES by twenty, but I hope Boggs is very wrong)

I'm sure many of you out there have plenty of questions about this year's team. They know that and they realize that the challenge is there for them to accept. I think the Gulls will rise to the occasion and put together a solid season. It remains to be seen if they will make a run at the national championship. A win against UMES would be a great boost. More importantly, a strong showing against the Hawks would give me reason enough to believe that the Seagulls will be just fine. I can't wait to find out.

GULL TAKES

Field Hockey players honored

Senior forward Kristen Gutilla was named to the division III Sauk Valley/College field hockey association all-american team, she tallied a team-high 20 goals this season and ended her career with 38 goals and 16 assists.

Nicki Houghton, senior back, was selected as a second team all-american. Both Gutilla and Houghton, as well as senior Diane Bondulich were chosen to the first team all-south region first team, while junior Tara Savage earned second team all-south honors.

Talley, Hayes earn honors

Scott Talley and Chris Hayes were both selected to the division III all-south region first team. Hayes finished second on the team in scoring with sevens goals; he also had two assists. Talley, led a strong defensive attack which only allowed 12 goals in 15 games. Both Hayes and Talley were named to the Eastern States Athletic Conference.

Medhurst, Lewit to broadcast games

Pete "The Sports Guy" Medhurst and former Sea Gull basketball player Bill Lewit are teaming up to bring you, season long men's basketball coverage, home and away. Catch all the action on WLWV AM 960 radio. Broadcasts begin fifteen minutes before game time.

Seven men's swimming records fall

Last Saturday in a home meet, SSU defeated Coppin State by a score of 79-25 and shattered four school records in the process. The 200 meter medley relay team of Bryan Snyder, Matt Raschka, Jeff Brameyer, and Scott Wray broke the record last set in 1990, with a time of 2:04.74.

Raschka also set two new records in the 100 meter I.M. (1:11.25), and the 50 meter breaststroke (32.84). Snyder claimed the new record for the 50 merer freestyle with a time of 26.44, bettering the record of 26.50 last set by Andy Higgs in 1980. On Tuesday, Nov. 24, Salisbury broke three more records in a losing cause as the Shoremen of Washington College downed the Gulls 131-72.

Snyder took first place in the 200 meter freestyle with a time of 2:09.15, improving the school record of 2:12.3 set back in 1980 by Larry Russell. He also broke the 100 meter freestyle mark that was set in 1980, by Russell, with a 57.70 second place finish. Raschka also broke the 100 meter breaststroke record with a time of 1:12.21.

Former SSU lax player publishes book

Jim Huselecamp, a former lacrosse, and basketball player at Salisbury State University has published a book about the game of Lacrosse. He will hold a book signing on Dec. 9 at 6 p.m. at the Book Rack.

DiBartolo named Coach-of-the-Year

Men's soccer coach Gerry DiBartolo was named NSCAA/Umbro South Atlantic Coach-of-the-year. The award was voted on by Division III coaches in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wahington, D.C. He is now eligible for the national Division III Coach-of-the-Year, to be announced in January.

DiBartolo was also named ESAC coach of the year after guiding his team to a 13-2-1 record in 1992. "I'm extremely pleased, honored and surprised to receive this award," said DiBartolo. "It's really a credit to the players and the team for all the success that they achieved this year."

Women's Swim team wins

by Joe Herman, assistant sports editor

On Saturday December 5th, the Salisbury State women's swim team upped their record to 6-2 as they defeated Coppin State and broke two school records in the process.

in a meet where SSU won 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place in five out of the fourteen events, the small Coppin State squad never really had a prayer.

The five events that SSU swept were the 200 I.M., 50 back, 50 free, 100 I.M., and 50 fly.

In addition to dominating the meet, two SSU records were shattered. Sophomore Eileen Messenger broke her own school record last set in 1991 in the 50 meters with a new time of 34.09, while Amy Van Driessche tied the school record in the 50 meter breast stroke (38.46), matching Mary Joe Tantalio's record which was last set in 1990.

Despite the fact that Coppin State was not very competitive, a number of SSU swimmers still recorded personal bests. These swimmers are as follows: Lisa Kidd 200 free, Sarah Haight 100 free and 50 breast, Robin Tompkins 50 free and 50 back, Elaine Gauthier 200 I.M., Cindy Sotaski 100 I.M., Donna McAnany 50 back, Jen Gordy 50 fly, Jackie Sykes 50 fly, and Kelly Flynn 50 fly.

Senior captain Lisa Kidd sums up the season to this point by saying "We've been really strong so far, every year we've improved our record. I hope we can end the season at 7-2."

On December 12, Salisbury will end their season against Marymount, who they defeated by a narrow margin last year.

"The swimmers have continued to work hard, we have another tough meet against Marymount whom we only beat 132-130 last year, but we've got a lot of talent," said Coach Wagner.

Andy Sachs comes home

Lambert said of his former assistant. "I know we'll miss him."

"Coach Butterfield said that if I can recruit here, I can recruit anywhere, so I am looking forward to that challenge," Sachs said.

Sachs graduated from Chesapeake High School in Anne Arundel county and received his bachelor's degree at SSU.

Whether spending Virginia Wesleyan money or his own, a determined guy like Sachs is certainly going to succeed. Division I isn't far away.

ATHLETES OF THE WEEK

TOM WOLFE, JR MEN'S BASKETBALL TEAM

Wolfe who leads the team with 23 assists, has played well in all three of the men's basketball team's games coming off the bench.

EILEEN MESSENGER, WOMEN'S SWIM TEAM

Salisbury State women's swim team's last three meets Messenger has tallied five first place and two second place finishes. Along the way she set a new school record with a time of 1:13.24 in the 100 meter backstroke against Washington College.

Outdoor Club

Again this year the Outdoor Club is sponsoring a winter term trip to Shawbridge, Quebec for cross-country skiing. Trip dates are Jan. 24-Feb. 5.

Prior experience is strongly recommended for downhill skiers but is not necessary for cross-country skiers.

The trip this year features 11 days in Canada with departure from SSU on Jan. 24 and return on Feb. 5. Cost, including lodging, transportation, and breakfast and dinner while in Canada, is approximately $260. This does not include rental fees for cross-country skis.

Club meetings are held at 9 p.m. on Mondays in Nanticoke A of the University Center.

Computer Services Center

The Department of Computer Services will be accepting applications for the position of student monitor for the Spring 1992 Semester. Any student who has successfully completed either COSC 112, COSC 120 or ISMN 111 may apply.

Flu Shots

The Health Center has a limited quantity of flu vaccine. As in the past we will provide the flu shot at a cost of $7.00 to faculty and staff who desire it. There is no charge to students.

We advise you to call the Health Center at 543-6262 before coming in order to decrease your waiting time.

The Health Center hours for this semester are:
Mon., Tues., Fri., 8 am-4:30pm
Wed. and Thurs. 8 am-6 pm.

College Republicans

The College Republicans will be holding their last meeting of the semester on Tuesday, Dec. 8 at 8:30p.m. in the Nanticoke Room B of the GUC. This meeting will be very crucial to the success of the spring semester. Possible events and projects will be discussed and voted on. Anyone interested in the Republican party or conservative issues is urged to attend. If you cannot attend, but would like more info. call Gary Litka at 548-1931 or write to us at Campus Box # 3005.

Phi Alpha Law Society

Phi Alpha Delta, the largest international law fraternity, is seeking people interested in joining its organization. The SSU chapter is currently being formed.

Founded in 1902, this professional service organization seeks to advance the ideals of equal justice under the law.

Phi Alpha Delta's pre-law program offers the undergraduate the opportunity to gain insight into the various aspects of preparing for law school, choosing a law school and selecting law as a career.

If you have an interest in law, call Karen or Jenn Silvestri at 742-0567.

Army Field Band and Soldiers Chorus Perform

The internationally acclaimed United States Army Field Band and Soldier's Chorus will perform at Salisbury State University on Thursday, Dec. 10 at 8 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium. Although admission to the concert is free a donation to the Maryland Food Bank of canned food goods will be appreciated. The food goods will be distributed to the needy of the community.

Tickets to the concert are available beginning Tuesday, December 1 at Salisbury State's University Center information desk, the SSU ROTC Detachment, the Salisbury Daily Times reception desk and the U.S. Army recruiting center at the Twilley shopping center. For more information contact the SSU public relations office at (410) 543-6030.

SSU Gospel Choir

Come worship with us! The SSU Gospel Choir will be having an evening service on Sunday, Dec. 13 in the Wicomico Room at 7p.m.

Minister Brown from Weeping Mary Baptist Church will be bringing forth the message. Refreshments will be served following the service.

SSU Golf Club Meeting

The SSU Golf Club will meet Tuesday, Dec. 8 at 3:30pm in the Manokin room of U.C. to finalize plans for Spring semester events at Nutter's Crossing (Salisbury), Eagle Landing (Ocean City), Nassawango (Snow Hill), Hog's Neck (Easton) and Caroline (Denton).

Membership is free and open to SSU students, faculty and staff. Membership forms are available at the Office of the Dean of Students (room 212 UC) and should be returned to that office by Dec. 7 to be put on the mailing list for club activities.

Greek News

Tau Kappa Epsilon

Thanks goes out to all the ladies of AST for the football game. We had a blast!

It's nice to see frater Jeff Hutnick is well again and has rejoined us here at Sigma Sigma. Hey Purcell, glad to see you finally have YOUR OWN car. Anyone who needs a ride, call 543-4547. We're disappointed that we didn't hear from any church groups, bridge clubs or other great organizations but maybe next week.

Cramp, I know you were in a hurry to get to the dining hall, but that's a little ridiculous. Hey Huey- What's your major? And- we've got some Chachoes for you. It's nice to see everyone got back from break safely. Three more weeks-

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

Welcome back to SSU Brothers of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Pledge retreat was an all out Animal House. The pledges of Maryland Sigma SAE went to Drexel University for the weekend of a lifetime. Like we say "Pledge SAE, and you will experience the time of your life." So remember all you future greeks - Rush SAE in '93. More details to come- C-Ya!

Sigma Tau Gamma

Congratulations to Sig Tau's 17th Pledge Class for sticking to it and making it in. Our newest brothers are : Trevor Willard, Scott Morris, John Evertt, Mark Condon, and Mike Klasmier. Look for them on campus and congratulate them on a job well done.

Alpha Sigma Tau

We recently had our sorority retreat which we hold every semester. It turned out to be a fun filled weekend of "female bonding" made better by the visiting of our new district president. Much thanks to Barb and her committee for all their efforts in throwing it together. We are now looking forward to Christmas caroling in the local nursing homes and celebrating the holiday with our adopted Grandad Shorty. Break out the 20/20 girls! Good luck to everyone on their upcoming exams!

The Deadline for Briefly Stated in this semester's final edition of The Flyer is Wednesday, December 9.

JUNIORS!!

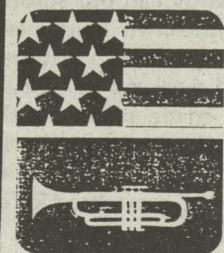

Are you a marketing major looking for some advertising experience?? The Flyer is in need of an Advertising Assistant for the Spring semester. It's a PAID position!! Duties include selling advertising space to local businesses, graphic design layout of advertisements, and the delivering of newspapers to those who have advertised. Macintosh experience is helpful! Please pick up an application in The Flyer office on the 2nd floor of the GUC.
